

We've got more stories than The Austonian to share with you at the 9th annual AJFF.

You'll see a contemporary documentary that travels to South Africa to see the price of colluding with Apartheid; Israeli films with various themes, including a family trapped on both sides of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, a historical narrative of building the land of Israel, a complex issue on the Israeli security fence, as well as coming-of-age and family stories. And you can count on quality Jewish films from around the globe that'll keep you either roaring in laughter or wide-eyed during thrillers. The AJFF brings you a selection of films for all ages and preferences.

The following films will have a program or Q&A after the screening:

BUDRUS

- Q&A by Nadav Greenberg, Outreach & Media Associate for Just Vision, the producers of Budrus.
